

MONTENEGRO NOT TO SURRENDER SCUTARI
DESPITE POWERS

KING NICHOLAS SO STATES FROM
ROYAL PALACE IN CAPITAL OF LITTLE KINGDOM.

DEMANDS BY AUSTRIA

All Europe is Anxiously Waiting the Solution of the Difficult Problem
Which Confronts Them.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Cettinje, April 24.—Scutari is from today Montenegro's, was the defiant reply of King Nicholas to the European invitation to surrender the hard won Turkish citadel.

The king made this statement in the course of a speech made from the balcony of the royal palace. Among his audience were the ministers of the Balkan states who came to congratulate him. He added:

"Should Europe still think of snatching Scutari from Montenegro who has given her life blood to take it, Europe will have to carry out the task by force of arms."

Is Insistent.
London, April 24.—Austria-Hungary declares she cannot permit the Montenegro to fight the Serbian and the Great Powers. The prestige of the European nations has been violated by the note and Austria-Hungary demands that the powers decided promptly on the steps to be taken to restore that prestige, adding that if the powers should be unable to reach a speedy decision she will see to it herself that the will of Europe is respected and that the Montenegrins vacate Scutari.

Make Ultimatum.
"Take immediate combined action to turn the Montenegrins out of Scutari or we shall do it alone," declared a circular note sent by the Austro-Hungarian government to the powers today. The note is virtually an ultimatum.

Germany's View.
Berlin, April 24.—There are many indications here today that the German government and public regard the European situation as critical. A high diplomatic official said today:

"Europe has entered another crisis as grave as that which preceded the Austro-Russian demobilization."

No Statement.
The press bureau of the German foreign office contrary to usual custom, was not prepared today with a statement in regard to the ultimatum to Montenegro or to the general situation. An official, however, believed it probably that force would have to be employed to expel the Montenegrins from Scutari.

Work Together.
The official view here is that all European powers will work together until the problem has been solved. The cancellation by Emperor William of his proposed trip on the steamship Imperator and his determination to return to Berlin from Hamburg, on April 28 are attributed in well informed quarters to the crisis brought about by the fall of Scutari.

Is Bishop Dead.
Rome, April 24.—An unconfirmed report of the assassination of the Roman Catholic arch-bishop of Scutari reached here today.

Cardinal Merry del Val had not communicated it to the Pope as he wishes to save the Pontiff any sudden emotion, although the improvement in his health is maintained and his strength is increasing.

Austria's Demands.
Berlin, April 24.—Austria-Hungary telegraphed to all the other powers yesterday demanding that they send an ultimatum to Montenegro to evacuate Scutari within 48 hours, according to an unconfirmed dispatch from Vienna to the Associated Press. Austria declares she and her allies will take steps to protect her political interests.

SEVENTY FIVE KNOWN
DEAD IN THE SHAFTS OF FATAL COAL MINE

Twenty-two Bodies Recovered and Rescuers Are Unable to Go Down into Depths for Remainder.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Pittsburgh, April 24.—With more than a score and a half of rescuers working from three different entrances into the Cincinnati mine of the Monongahela River Consolidated Coal and Coke company, the total number of known dead by the explosion of gas yesterday reached twenty-two this afternoon with other bodies still in the mines. According to best reports the death list will be about seventy-five.

Morning Situation.
With the coming of dawn fresh crews took the places of tired workers who had toiled unceasingly and braved death throughout the night in an effort to penetrate the dark recesses of the Cincinnati mine of the Pittsburgh Coal Company at Finleyville, Pa., where an explosion of fire damp yesterday killed many men and wrecked the mine.

Eighteen bodies had been brought to the mouth of the principal opening this morning and from there transferred to Monongahela city for burial. That the mine contains more dead even officers of the company admit, while leaders of the rescue party and some of the men who escaped from the workings are of the opinion that the fatalities will number close to 100. However, it will be impossible to determine the exact extent of the catastrophe until the mines are again and cross entries have been explored. A difficult task when it is known that these are choked with fallen timbers and rocks. Many men are building hastily constructed brattices to carry the fresh air through the gas filled galleries.

Manager in Charge.
General Manager George W. Schueberber of the coal company early took charge of the situation and directed the work of rescue. Crews from the Pittsburgh station of the United States bureau of mines were sent to recover the bodies of dead and rescued such as might have survived the explosion and the after damp.

The ventilation system was paralyzed and before the workings could be explored it was necessary to construct temporary passages through which the fresh air could be forced. Long hours were consumed in this labor, but in the meantime parties provided with oxygen helmets had climbed over the fallen rocks through some of the principal entries. They found many dead. It was hoped, company officers said, that the air would have been advanced by noon sufficient to allow a thorough search of the workings and the number of dead would then be known.

Physicians At Work.
Two of the company's physicians accompanied the rescue parties, during the night and were relieved by an equal number this morning. They were ready to render assistance if by chance some of the entombed miners might have survived the explosion and after damp. The bodies found were not far from the entrances. Among them being that of a miner named McCullough, who had volunteered for rescue work and was known as one of the best and most careful miners in the district. He was among the first to enter the mine after the explosion. He is believed to have been killed by a fall from the roof, as he was provided with a helmet and was in no danger from gas.

Rescuers this morning reported that the bodies of 21 mules had been seen, the majority of them having been killed by the explosion.

Believed Hundred Dead.
Latest estimates of the dead are near the hundred mark as it is known that 179 men went into the mine and 179 are known to have made their escape. It developed early that the first rescue crew to enter the mine today had come upon other dead men and the bodies were being brought to the shaft. The physicians say that the mine is being repaired and reports from the most advanced parties will be received at the opening as soon as line men can complete the constructions.

CANAL TOLLS CONTROVERSY DISCUSSED BY LAWYERS

Washington, D. C., April 24.—The Panama Canal tolls controversy is the leading, and virtually the only topic scheduled for consideration at the seventh annual meeting of the American Society of International Law, which convened in this city today for a session of three days. The subject will be discussed from every viewpoint by eminent legal authorities. The meeting will conclude with a banquet Saturday night, which will be addressed by noted lawyers of the United States and other countries.

LUCKY BALDWIN'S ESTATE IS FINALLY DIVIDED

Los Angeles, April 24.—The task of distributing the estate of the Lucky Baldwin was completed today in the probate department of the superior court after four years of litigation, when the final report of the executor was filed and distribution ordered accordingly.

Sums of realty valued in excess of eleven million dollars appear among the items in the final report. Proceeds of such sales were ordered divided between Mrs. Clara Baldwin Stocker and Mrs. Anita Baldwin McClaughery.

One Court Matter: The Case of E. C. McGowan vs. John Paul et al., was brought before Judge Grimm in circuit court this afternoon. Motion was made on part of the plaintiff to the effect that the supreme court and the plaintiff's costs in the matter were assessed against the defendant, town of Milton. Judge Grimm will return Monday to try a case set for that date.

CURB COCAINE SALE BY STRINGENT LAW

Measures Drawn up by Milwaukee District Attorney Recommended
By Committee for Passage.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 24.—The senate bills to curb the sale of cocaine were recommended for passage by the assembly committee on public welfare yesterday afternoon. These bills were drawn by District Attorney Yockey of Milwaukee as the result of recent disclosures of cocaine deals in that city.

One bill provides that any person who shall furnish to another person cocaine or any cocaine mixture, except upon the original order from a physician, shall be punished by a fine of not less than $200 nor more than $1,000 or by imprisonment in the state prison from one to five years. The other bill provides if any person, not a registered pharmacist, shall sell or furnish cocaine to any one he shall be deemed guilty of a felony and may be punished by the same fine and imprisonment as is prescribed for those who seek to make the purchase. No person is allowed to keep in his possession more than two ounces of cocaine. In case the guilty person is a registered physician, dentist or veterinarian, his license shall be revoked.

The Nordham bill to create a state board of drugless practitioners was reported by the committee for indefinite postponement. Senator Monk's bill which provides that local health officers shall attend conferences with the state board of health, when they are called by the secretary to discuss epidemic or contagious diseases was recommended for passage.

Mrs. Suzanne Rogdon, a delegate from Alaska, told the congress this morning of the advance of the good roads movement in the northern territory under the direction of Major Richardson, the army engineer in charge of this development. Mrs. Rogdon declared that the winning of Alaska from the wilderness is in large measure due to the good roads that are stretching in every direction from the principal cities and towns.

BUNGLING EXECUTION OF A NEGRO MURDERER

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Uniontown, Pa., April 24.—Due to bungling on the part of someone John Harris, a negro condemned to death was not executed with the humanity that is supposed to characterize hanging. Harris was placed on the scaffold at the county jail here today and when it was sprung the rope was about three feet too long. It was thought the drop broke Harris' neck until he started to rise to his feet when the sheriff and his deputies jumped to the scaffold, pulled up Harris' body by the rope until the feet were clear of the floorings. For 18 minutes the condemned man struggled and twisted, his contortions evidencing the intense agony of strangling to death. Harris shot and killed another negro last May.

ALL PARTIES JOIN TO KILL MARY ANN
SECOND CHOICE ACT

First Call of the House During Present Session Required to Get Members to Repeal Law.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, April 24.—The first call of the house for this session of the legislature was ordered in the assembly today when democrats, socialists, non-partisans and a contingency of republicans joined to kill the second choice primary law known as the Mary Ann law. The doors were closed and the sergeant-at-arms searched the capitol for absent members.

The bill by Assemblyman Roessler repealing the law was ordered to engrossment 51 to 43. Then followed reconsideration, roll calls, appeals from ruling of the chair and great confusion and finally, the tabling of the bill. The progressives, who urged the retention of the law as a progressive measure, hope to muster votes to kill the repeal bill when it appears on the calendar again.

County option was defeated by a vote of 67 to 19.

The one mile dry zone bill went down by a vote of 64 to 28.

MANY ASSEMBLYMEN GUESTS AT BANQUET

Rock County's Representatives in Lower House Among Those Entertained by Racine Editor.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 24.—Assemblyman Charles H. Everett of Racine, editor-in-chief of the Wisconsin Agriculturist, was host last night for the farmer members of the legislature at a banquet at the new Park hotel. In a legislative session marked thus far by few social festivities, the function of unusual interest for all attending.

The press also were invited. Mr. Everett neglected no detail that might contribute to the enjoyment. A stringed orchestra and handsomely printed menus containing photographs of the farmer legislators were provided.

Speaker Meritt Hull was toastmaster and the following program was given: Senator Henry M. Culbertson, master of the State Grange, "The Granger and Legislation"; Senator George E. Scott, "The Merchant Farmer and Legislation"; Assemblyman James Allison, "The Farmer and Co-operation"; Assemblyman George Carpenter, "Hill Farming"; Assemblyman C. D. Hawne, "Recitation"; Assemblyman Charles H. Everett, "The Farmer as a Legislator"; Assemblyman Axel Johnson, "Woman's Suffrage"; Assemblyman Edward Nordman, "Single, Double or Triple Taxation, Which?"; Assemblyman A. Gullikson, "Barren County Ably Represented"; Senator Isaac Bishop, "War-time Reminiscences."

The farmer legislators attending were: Senators George E. Scott, Isaac Bishop, H. M. Culbertson, William J. Biehler, Robert Glenn and C. A. Snover; Assemblymen John Chinnock, Axel Johnson, J. Engebretson, C. D. Rosa, George Carpenter, C. H. Everett, James Allison, C. D. Hawne, Edward Nordman, A. Gullikson, F. X. Schilling, Paul Hoverson, J. B. Jensen, August Dorn, Peter J. Murphy, A. M. Paul, Albert Richardson, M. O'Connor, J. D. Miller, Henry Ott, T. W. Bartogale, Luke Scanlan, and Sergeant-at-Arms W. S. Irvine.

Farmer members absent were Senator John M. True and Assemblyman A. R. Potts. T. A. Stewart, Charles H. Mory, H. E. Krueger, and Newcomb Spoor. The latter was listed on the program but is at his home at Berlin, Ill. A message of good cheer was wired to him by Speaker Hull and Assemblyman Everett on behalf of the legislature.

Hostess to Club: Miss Cora Smith entertained the Laugh-a-Lot Club at her home on South Jackson street last evening. A very enjoyable time was spent in laughter and music, after which dainty refreshments were served.

TOLERANT ATTITUDE IS TAKEN IN JAPAN

Japanese Government Anxious for Amicable Settlement of California Difficulty.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Tokio, April 24.—The relations between Japan and the United States were discussed this morning by Premier Count Gombor. Yamamoto, he said they must remain peaceful despite local disturbances and he expressed absolute confidence that American citizens, both official and unofficial, would demand that no discrimination be made and that matters be arranged in a spirit of fair play. He said he entirely disapproved of any exhibition of temper or unseemly agitation.

Baron Nobuaki Makino, minister of foreign affairs, in an address to an assembly of members of the Japanese chamber of commerce said the Japanese government has done all in its power relative to the California alien land ownership question, but he was unable to reveal the diplomatic correspondence which has passed between the two governments. He was confident, he said, that the outcome of the affair would be satisfactory and he counseled his hearers and the Japanese people to show quiet and dignified patience.

Buel Nakano, chairman of the Tokyo chamber of commerce, Matsuo Nagai, Japanese consul general at San Francisco and the minister of agriculture, Count Yamamoto, made speeches of a similar character.

FURTHER DISCUSSION IN CORN SYRUP CASE

Attorney General Owen's Opinion
Opens Controversy Anew And Commissioner Emery Makes Statement.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 24.—Attorney General Owen's opinion yesterday in the Wisconsin corn syrup labeling case opened up the controversy anew. Dairy and Food Commissioner Emery made the receipt of this opinion the occasion for his first public statement on the federal decision rendered on April 7.

Attorney General Owen held that the state may require such additional labels not in conflict with the requirements of the federal statute as may be reasonably required for the protection of the consumer against fraud, misrepresentation, or injurious ingredients.

Continuing, he says:

State Has Authority.
"While the federal jurisdiction attaches to the imported goods so long as they remain in the hands of the importer unsold, that does not prevent the jurisdiction of the state, over the same goods."

"Such federal jurisdiction is not displaced until a completed sale by the importer."

"The state may go even further and prohibit entirely the sale of goods deemed by it to be injurious, except the first sale in the original package, meaning by that term, the shipping unit, rather than the package intended for the consumer."

Mr. Owen also said that insofar as interstate commerce requires this syrup to be branded or labeled as one thing, while the ruling in question is to the effect that a different brand or label gives the true name thereof, under the federal statute, the Wisconsin statute would be in conflict with the federal law. Mr. Owen doubted the authority of the secretary of the treasury, the secretary of agriculture and the secretary of commerce and labor to rule that the product in question was not misbranded and he also questioned the correctness of the ruling.

Emery's Statement.
Commissioner Emery in his statement declared that "whether corn syrup is a proper designation of the product is in no way passed upon by the United States supreme court," and of the authority of the three secretaries to rule as they did is questionable. Attorney General Wickesham on their exercise of like authority in the case of saccharine: "I take it that such rules have been made under a misapprehension of the true meaning of the statute. This report is not binding upon the secretary of agriculture."

"It will be seen," concludes Mr. Emery's statement, "that the Wisconsin law in question was at the time of its enactment in 1907 in harmony with the national food laws and the standards for food products as proclaimed by the United States secretary of agriculture. It was the arbitrary act of the three secretaries as set forth in food inspection decision No. 86 and brought about by the secret manipulation, influence and forces as exposed in the hearings before the committee on expenditures in the department of agriculture in 1911, and by Dr. H. W. Wiley in his article in Good Housekeeping for December, 1912, entitled 'Glucose, the Champion Adulterant,' that interrupted the harmonious relations between the Wisconsin food laws and the national food law and regulations."

ATTACK TARIFF BILL IN MINORITY REPORT

CONGRESSMAN MURDOCK SCORES
ESPECIALLY PROPOSED
METHOD OF HAND-LING BILL IN HOUSE.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, April 24.—Tariff discussion was on again today on both the senate and house side of the capitol. There were information conferences between senators and the house met an hour earlier than usual.

Leaders of all three parties have been confronted with the disposition of their colleagues to delay speeches until the latter part of the time allotted to general debate, which will expire Monday night.

Gives Minority Report.
A tariff commission with power to select information was urged reason-able reduction of any duty obviously excessive was advocated and radical reductions not founded on adequate information were opposed. In a minority report presented to the house today by Representative Victor Murdock of Kansas, the progressive member of the ways and means committee.

Mr. Murdock in his report asserted that if there had been waiting proof of the necessity of a tariff commission the pending democratic tariff bill alone would supply it. He charges that as a result of the methods used in its preparation the few men who drafted it are not warranted in feeling certain as to its effect, and most of those who have endorsed it in caucus as a party measure, cannot have other than a superficial knowledge of its provisions.

A Schedule at a Time.
The democratic revision, he said, had been undertaken in defiance of a universally popular demand that "the tariff should be revised scientifically, a schedule at a time, upon data that is not ex parte, with full right of debate and amendment without secrecy in caucus or committee and without closure in congress."

"Thus," he said, "we witness the earlier stages of preparation of the Payne-Aldrich tariff act."

"Under the guise of reducing the cost of living," he said, "it may destroy the very basis of our industrial prosperity. Proposing and promising to cheapen the food and clothing of the working man, it may take from him the very means by which he may earn his livelihood. Proclaiming in one statement that it is cheapening the article used by the farmer, in the next statement it seeks to place the American market to foreign agricultural and dairy products."

Progressive Attitude.
The progressive party's position on the tariff is distinct. It does not believe in the republican position which proposes to keep the duties prohibitive.

"It believes in a protective tariff which shall equalize the conditions of competition between the United States and foreign countries, both the farmer and manufacturer, and which shall maintain for labor an adequate standard of living."

Sugar Growers Protest.
Before the debate was reached Senators Randall and Thornton of Louisiana, and two Louisiana sugar growers called on Mr. Underwood and pleaded for more time before the proposed 25 per cent reduction on sugar goes into effect. The senators declared it would afford considerable relief to the industry of Louisiana if the sugar reduction could be made effective not before October 1, next, instead of immediately upon the bill becoming a law.

Mr. Underwood, it is understood, assured his visitors that the request could not be met. President Wilson arranged his visit so he would reach the president's room in ample time for conferences before the senate convened at two. The talk, it was announced, was to be about appointments.

Representative Peters, democrat of Massachusetts declared the present democrats' control of the government was the result of the failure of republicans to revise the tariff in the interest of the consumer.

Wisconsin Democrats Not Allied With Faction Headed by Committeeman Davies Have No Show for Federal Jobs.

George P. Mathes, Madison correspondent for the Milwaukee Sentinel, treats the matter of the federal patronage in Wisconsin in the following pertinent manner:
"Just suggest the name of Aylward & Co. to the average democrat these days and listen to his remarks regarding the workings of the firm. It is an interesting and instructive pastime, illustrating the business of a 'lead pipe clinch' while the business operators proclaim it to be the duty of the people to down the bosses and emancipate themselves from political thralldom."

"Aylward & Co. is a close political corporation, limited. No one outside the Aylward faction of the democratic party is apparently to have a look-in while the political pie is being cut in this state."

"The order has gone out to see that none but Aylward supporters be recommended for office and it is being strictly obeyed. Through the influence which National Committeeman J. D. Davies has been able to bring to bear at Washington about all the biggest political plums in the state have been already parceled out among the friends and adherents of Mr. Aylward. Grumbling is heard."

"This does not set well with those who are outside the limits of that close corporation and they are saying so, not loudly at present, but with intense earnestness to those who are to be trusted. The grumbling is increasing day by day as announcements are made of new offices which have been passed out to the minority faction of the party."

"Up to date, the invoice of political goods delivered to Aylward and company, f. o. b. stands: Collector of internal revenue Western District of Wisconsin, H. H. Manson, Wausau; United States district attorney Western District of Wisconsin, John A. Aylward, Madison; collector of internal revenue Eastern District of Wisconsin, Charles McDonald, Wittman; marshal Eastern District of Wisconsin, Senator S. W. Randolph, Manitowish; warden Leavenworth penitentiary, Thomas E. Ryan, Rhineland; marshal Western District of Wisconsin, Assemblyman E. J. Kneen, Schunior; Milwaukee, Frank B. Schmutz."

Levy on Postoffices.
"It would not be so bad if the operations of the firm stopped here. There would be grumbling, but it would be kept under. But the postoffices are also being leveled on to funeral places for the Aylward faction. In several cases, where leading democrats in a community have recommended some one for appointment as postmaster, the recommendation has been turned down and an Aylward man put on the list for appointment when the proper time comes."

"Not only that, but there are indications that the dominant faction, thought to be in the minority in the party, is inclined to push with democratic congressmen when some favorite has an ambition to write R. M. after his name. If this inclination is carried out there will, it is said, be a beautiful fight which may even reach President Wilson in the White House. From time immemorial it has been the custom to permit congressmen of the dominant party to name the postmasters in their districts. Where there is no congressman of the dominant party, in a district this political patronage goes to the senators. In the present instance there is no democratic senator from Wisconsin. Therefore Mr. Davies, as national committeeman, assumes control."

CAN EASILY DOUBLE THE AVERAGE YIELD

Boys in Gazette Corn Contest Will be Interested in Accomplishments of Lad Down in Mississippi.

Down in Lincoln county, Mississippi there is a lad not yet fifteen years old who is recognized by all the farmers of the region as champion corn grower of the county, if not of the state. Bennie got interested in scientific corn raising and now he gets 226 bushels of corn from one acre of land. And what is more he did it at a cost of fourteen cents a bushel while his neighbors raised 19 bushels to an acre costing 33 cents a bushel to get the crop. All of which shows what a determined boy can do.

Young Beeson became interested in raising corn scientifically through a corn growing contest very similar to the one which the Gazette is now conducting. When S. A. Knapp of the department of agriculture went to Mississippi a short time ago to study the boll weevil, and study a means to eradicate it, he also interested himself in corn growing in that section. And he organized a boy's corn club. Bennie was one of the original members and applied himself with zeal and determination. He learned all he could from Dr. Knapp and started raising corn on his own hook. At the last state fair he captured a lot of prizes because he not only raised big yields but also a fine grade of corn. Bennie just followed scientific methods using only the material which he had on hand on the farm that he worked which had been under cultivation for years. Bennie is a winner and will some day be one of the biggest farmers in Mississippi.

This little account of Bennie is mighty interesting to Rock county lads. This part of the state, it has been thoroughly demonstrated is well adapted to the growth of several varieties of corn. And men who have used scientific methods in raising these varieties have been able to double and more than double the average yield. The trouble is that more do not find out the science of corn raising and apply it in their own case. The Gazette believes that the boys of the county can create an interest in this matter and so has instituted a corn contest which should appeal to every enterprising lad. Keep in mind what Bennie Beeson, fifteen years old, is doing down in Mississippi and see how near you can come to his record. You Rock county youths have just the same and a better chance, because there isn't the 'hok worm' danger here that threatens to breed laziness and indifference in the south. Why can't the same results be achieved in Wisconsin in the matter of corn raising that Bennie Beeson is getting down south? The Gazette believes that they can with a little encouragement. It's up to the boys to get into the game and show that they can.

SAVE MONEY TOMORROW.

A $12 Cyclopaedia for $2.35 and a Coupon.

The demand for Cyclopedias was great last week, many readers were on hand to get a set. The Gazette will endeavor to supply every one of their readers tomorrow and next day, when coupons may be presented as explained in the coupon printed elsewhere in today's paper.

More than two million dictionaries were distributed to readers of these leading newspapers more than a year ago at 98 cents each, and this was considered the greatest bargain ever offered. Here is an even greater bargain.

The useful set of books offered this time is called Everybody's Cyclopaedia. It is complete in five beautiful volumes bound in English cloth. The regular selling price is $12 per set, but tomorrow and the next day readers of The Gazette can have the complete set for $2.35 and one coupon.

The price of the large Cyclopaedia sets is usually so high, from $50 to $100, that they are usually sold on the installment plan. The publishers of Everybody's Cyclopaedia took advantage of these facts and from a revision of all these various large cyclopedias they have compiled all that is good and necessary.

The sets are too bulky to be sent by mail, but out-of-town readers can have them for $2.35, the set to be sent by express, shipping charges to be paid by the receiver.

Have your coupon ready tomorrow and present it early.

Four Teams and Ten Men at Work Hauling Out Dirt—Ready for Crushed Stone in a Week.

Guard & Graham have had ten men and four teams at work yesterday and today excavating and hauling away material from Milwaukee avenue between Garfield avenue and Harrison street. The dirt is being dumped into the hollow to the rear of the McKean property on Court street. Superintendent George Croft expects to have the sub-grade ready for crushed stone in a week's time and two more weeks will be required to spread the stone, roll it, and apply the finishing touches.

Kansas Solomon.

King Solomon had nothing on a Centralia justice of the peace before whom a colored man and brother was being tried for stealing a chicken. The prosecuting witness thought it was his fowl, but was not willing to swear. It being near sundown the local Solomon let the hen loose and watched her going home to roost. Result, the negro was fined $50.—Kansas City Journal.

FAMOUS BOTANIST A WISCONSIN MAN

Prof. A. B. West Talks to High School Students on Life of John Moore.

The student body of the high school were interested listeners this morning to a very fine talk given by Prof. A. B. West of the high school faculty on the life of John Moore, the great American botanist. Mr. Moore came to this country from England when a boy, and settled at once in Wisconsin, in Columbia county. Not being able to go to school, he was forced to stay at home and help his father. He delighted in reading, but he had little time in which to gain knowledge of things about him. So, in order to study, he would stay up at night or get up at one o'clock in the morning and read until daylight. Literature was his favorite study, while he spent much time in mathematics.

Later in his boyhood he took to machinery, and made much of invention. He invented a self-setting saw mill and a calendar clock. This clock proved to be of much value to him in his later life. He was determined to take it to Madison to the county fair, and he did so. The clock was put up on exhibition, and attracted much attention. While at Madison, he met some of the faculty of the university. He was told much concerning the state school, and so by saving and studying, he graduated from the university of Wisconsin four years later.

Then he taught school in the vicinity of Pardeeville, his home. In this school he placed his wonderful clock. During the winter, he found it disagreeable to go to the school early in the morning and make a fire. So, he told his neighbors that by the use of his clock he could start a fire before coming to school, and then the school would be heated up before he arrived. The neighbors were naturally sceptical.

Mr. Moore designed his invention and it worked. By having a dish of potassium chlorate and sugar mixed together, with shavings to start the fire, he then considered how the fire could be lighted. He decided to take a small steel rod, and attach it to the clock. Close to this rod would be setting a bottle of sulphuric acid. The object was to have this steel rod, enter the mouth of the bottle, and gather a drop of the acid. Then the acid would be transferred from the rod to the mixture under the shavings. This would form a blaze and start the fire. The next morning at eight o'clock the chimney was being watched by the neighbors, and true enough, there was smoke coming out in clouds. The scheme had worked.

This was an early indication of Mr. Moore's remarkable ability. He accomplished much in his later life throughout the west. He was a member of the De Long Relief Expedition, and was the founder of the many Park Reserves on the Pacific coast. Yosemite and Big Tree Reserves are two of his schemes.

The fact that Moore was a Wisconsin man was one reason for discussing his life and his accomplishments. Mr. West's talk was extremely interesting and held the closest attention of the students.

EFFICIENCY OF SCHOOL FIRE DRILL IS DEMONSTRATED

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Milwaukee, April 24.—The efficiency of the fire alarm drill in the public schools was demonstrated today when 1,000 children marched from the Clark street school without a suggestion of a panic. The fire drill alarm was turned in by Philip E. O'Hanlon after he had discovered a small blaze in a waste paper chute running from the third floor to the basement.

BURNING OF MARSHES HARD ON GAME BIRDS

Nest and Eggs, Fledglings, and Mother Birds, Too, Sometimes Killed As a Result.

That the regular burning over of marsh land is responsible to no small extent for the scarcity of certain kinds of game fowl and other wild birds is the belief of Deputy Game Warden V. P. Mason. Large numbers of nests, sometimes containing eggs and young birds, are burned up or killed by the heat, and it is very probable that not a few mother birds are also destroyed.

Brook trout are now being caught, says Mr. Mason, in some of the Walworth county streams a short distance from Whitewater. Among them are the Bluff brook and Territorial brook. No reports of catches in Rock county have been made though trout are known to be found in portions of Turle Creek. The season opened on April 15.

Prairie chickens are very plentiful and appear to be constantly increasing in number. They will be protected until 1915.

Partidges appear to be decreasing in southern Wisconsin as their natural cover of woods and underbrush disappears. They are almost extinct in this vicinity though fairly abundant in the northern part of the state.

ATTACK TARIFF BILL IN MINORITY REPORT

Not to filibuster.
By a unanimous vote the republican senate caucus today agreed there should be no general reprisal upon President Wilson for the democratic hold-up of the past nominations during the last session of congress, but that the republican opposition would be shown in the following cases:

In appointments to the consular service or to minor diplomatic posts such as secretaries of embassies or legations the merit system which was resorted to by former Presidents Roosevelt and Taft, was not followed.

Where vacancies are created by removals from office which carry a six years' tenure unless made for cause, and particularly where removals are made from offices which require technical or special knowledge. A statement issued after the caucus declares that removals from office of interstate terminate tenure should be made only for cause. It condemns the demerits for their opposition to the past appointments as being without jurisdiction and against sound public policy.

Among the nominations today were: Commissioner of labor statistics, Charles P. Neill, Washington D. C.; United States attorney, western district of Wisconsin, John A. Aylward; Auditor for navy department, Edward Luckow of Wisconsin.

HURLER'S ILLNESS HARMS ATHLETICS

Jack Coombs.

With Jack Coombs, veteran pitcher and one of the mainstays of the hurling staff in the hospital so ill with pneumonia that he hardly can play within a month, the pennant chances of the Philadelphia Athletics are sadly warped. The pitching staff is admittedly the crux of the Athletic situation, most critics agreeing that if his hurlers come up to snuff, Mack can pilot the team out ahead in the American League race. The loss of Coombs leaves Mack depending upon the two veterans, Bender and Plank, and a lot of youngsters of uncertain class.

FREE SUGAR.

That the leaders of the democratic radicals mean to force through an issue on the question of free sugar in their new tariff measure is now certain. They will listen to no rhyme or reason. Right here in Wisconsin the question is a serious one. Rock county and Janesville will be seriously affected if such a measure passes. Some of the reasons, aside from the killing off the home industry here, might be named in the following six reasons why free sugar is a menace to this country.

(1) That every civilized country in the world is trying through bounties, tariffs, and otherwise to raise enough sugar for their own consumption.

(2) That sugar is cheaper to the consumer in the United States than any European country, with the exception of England.

(3) That were the United States to be at war with any powerful maritime nation such as England, Germany, France or Italy, her supply of sugar from the outside world would be cut off.

(4) That the sugar industry in the United States supports hundreds of thousands of people who, if the sugar industry were destroyed, would have to seek other means of employment, and distribute millions of dollars in this country which would go to foreign countries, did the United States not make any sugar at all.

(5) That the duty on sugar brings to the government $56,000,000 of revenue, this being so evenly distributed that the amount is about 40 cents per person per annum to the direct consumer of sugar, and were this duty not collected a direct tax would have to be placed to make up this deficit.

(6) Free sugar will destroy the domestic industry and fatten the sugar trust.

TIME FOR ACTION.

Now is the time for action. Every one is interested in the organization of the Twenty-five Thousand club. The citizens are enthusiastic and now is the time to hit while the iron is hot and secure a membership roll that will surprise the doubting Thomases. Janesville has need for just such an organization and the value it will be to the city can not be over-estimated. The prizes offered for the sale of buttons makes the affair doubly interesting and everyone should join. It is a rare opportunity for the various organizations in the city to take part in this contest and at the same time stand a good chance of winning one of the four prizes for their organization. Everyone should wear one of the little red buttons and show their loyalty to Janesville.

THE AUTO ORDINANCE.

The council has put into force a new automobile ordinance that makes certain restrictions upon auto owners and places penalties for violation. The ordinance is apparently a good one but the next thing is to enforce it. Racing between youthful autoists is a menace to the public at large. Careless driving by auto delivery wagon drivers is another menace and it is up to the police to enforce these ordinances or the council's action is useless.

YOUTHFUL ROWDIES.

It is time to cry a halt on the "gangs" of youthful rowdies which infest the public streets of the city. Less than a month ago a second ward youth, not yet twenty, was beaten up by one of these gangs so severely that one of his eyes will always show the result of his mistreatment. If it is impossible to put down this epidemic of rowdism on the streets go to the root of the matter and put out of existence the places where they congregate—the places where they hatch their mischief and teach a few of the rowdies a lesson they will not forget. It was just such occurrences, which went unpunished, that caused the terrible murder last fall that has led to such a general cleaning up of the city's undesirables. Now is the time to act and not after it is all over.

There may be a good reason for abolishing "starboard" and "port" in the navy. Perhaps the desk admirals who recommended the change find it easier to say "right" and "left" when at sea under certain weather conditions.

Having marriageable daughters of his own, President Wilson must have a kindly fellow feeling for Ambassador Leishman.

Before the end of the season, possibly, somebody will gain well-earned fame by finding something new to call the umpire.

"What shall be done with our ex-presidents?" The best thing that can be done with them is to keep them apart.

Montenegro is not very big but apparently it is as capable of causing trouble as a bee on the inside of a shirt.

Secretary Bryan ate a ten-cent lunch the other day. But that's nothing for house-cleaning time.

Possibly the best way would be to let California and Japan take off their coats and go to it.

Contradictory.

Quiser things, these alleged wise saws. "Know thyself," for instance. On the other hand, "familiarity breeds contempt." How do you dope that out?

THE AUTO ORDINANCE.

The council has put into force a new automobile ordinance that makes certain restrictions upon auto owners and places penalties for violation. The ordinance is apparently a good one but the next thing is to enforce it. Racing between youthful autoists is a menace to the public at large. Careless driving by auto delivery wagon drivers is another menace and it is up to the police to enforce these ordinances or the council's action is useless.

CAPUR-MOMENT

Fame.

Says old man Haskins of our town. There are too many seekers for renown.

Too many fellows are grasping for fame.

Every one wants an immortal name. And a lot of fellows have not learned yet.

They're strivin' for something they'll never get.

There's got to be famous men, that's true.

But there's got to be common people, too.

This strenuous toil, we can't all shirk.

Somebody's got to do the work.

Somebody's got to be content Without the artistic temperament.

Somebody's got to till the soil.

Somebody's got to ache and toil.

Somebody's got to wash and scrub.

Somebody's got to produce the grub.

Somebody's got to stew and sweat.

Somebody's got to fume and fret.

To support the fellows who are in the game.

Of doin' nothing but chasin' Fame.

The road to Fame is a rocky way And it's getting rockier every day.

Per competitions's so got durned about.

That one in a hundred won't win out.

To be a genius no doubt is grand.

But for me, I'll take a little land.

And a certain livin' throughout the year.

Instid of chasin' a vague career.

Three meals a day and a coat to yer back.

Beats Fame by a mile on a kite-shaped track.

Caught on the Fly.

If you say it quick it always sounds like Mrs. Sparkhurst.

When Woodrow Wilson speaks of "the people in all walks of life" does he refer to those who ride in automobiles?

Occasionally in this old world of ours the right man lands in the right place.

A reformed train robber out in Oklahoma has gone into politics.

It is no encouragement to a little boy in Mexico to tell him he may be president some day.

No, the automobile bandit is not the person who hangs around the garage and makes repairs on your car.

What to Feed the Baby.

When the doctor advises you to feed the baby modified milk, be sure that your milkman keeps a modified cow. If he hasn't one, change milkmen.

When you are feeding the two-months-old child oranges, do not allow him to eat any of the peeling, for the peeling contains an acid which might interfere with the child's peace of mind, as it were.

It is not considered best to feed a three-months-old child beefsteak. It is also quite expensive. Codfish is much better and will inculcate into the mind of the child the spirit of economy.

Parsnips and carrots, when eaten raw are apt to disagree with a three- or four-months-old child. The parsnips should be thoroughly cooked and then thrown into the garbage can.

Heart to Heart Talks

By JAMES A. EDGERTON

THE LIFE SAVERS.

During one of the storms that raged on the Atlantic coast this winter the crews of the Tatham and Avalon life saving stations, near Atlantic City, heard the siren calls of a vessel in distress.

Hurrying through the fog and rain to an inlet about four miles away, they made out the lines of an ocean going tug benched on the shoals a considerable distance from shore.

Then began a battle involving all the dangers of real war, the only difference being that this was a fight to preserve life, not to take it.

Giant waves were breaking over the tug, and it was only a question of hours, perhaps of minutes, before the sailors aboard would be drowned.

Again and again each life saving crew tried to launch its boat, only to be dashed back on the beach.

In the midst of these efforts the dead body of a man was washed on the beach with a bit of rope around his waist. He had tried to swim ashore and carry a line. Not only had the waves whipped out his life, but had broken the rope.

At last both boats were launched between two big waves. When within twenty-five feet of the tug one capsized, and its crew was thrown into the sea. Being of course, good swimmers, they reached the tug and were drawn aboard.

The other boat labored through the terrific seas until at last it won the long fight, took all the men off and had almost regained shore when it, too, was wrecked. All aboard, however, managed to save themselves. The only one of all three crews lost was the man who tried to swim and whose body was swept on the beach with the fragment of rope about it.

Things like this are constantly happening in the life saving service. Courage is the least of the qualities required. Bone breaking labor, dauntless perseverance, generalship, resourcefulness and great skill are also involved. The life savers risk their lives as a matter of course. It is all a part of the day's work.

Heroism is the last thing talked of among them. They resent the use of the term. Real heroes always do. Often these life savers are rough, after the manner of seafaring men. They profess no religion. Yet their life business is to exemplify one of the Master's teachings:

"Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

ARRAIGN TWO YOUTHS ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Result of Attack on Stoughton Youth Tuesday Night in Municipal Court Today.

As a result of the row on West Milwaukee street on Tuesday evening last, when a youth from Stoughton, whom it is alleged offered to lick any man his weight in wildcats, in Webber's saloon, received a neat trimming up at the hands of several Janesville youths who defended the reputation of the town, two young men were arraigned in court this morning, plead guilty to the charge of creating a disturbance and paid their fines. Both, however, denied having been implicated in the fight at the start, but became participants when they themselves were struck. Hayes paid $5 and costs and Cronin $10 and costs. Cronin, it is alleged, was struck by the Stoughton youth and hit back, while Hayes became implicated according to his story in court, trying to keep Cronin out of trouble. The real disturber has thus far evaded arrest, but will doubtless be arrested and taken into court. The row started in Webber's saloon and now in Gibson's billiard hall, as was first thought, and ended on the walk in front of the saloon.

Clearing the Throat.

Hoarseness caused by irritation of the throat may be cured by gargling with cold salt and water. For severe hoarseness inhale the steam of hot milk in which figs have been boiled. Singers and public speakers should eat baked apples for clearing the throat; it is also said that swallowing the yolk of an uncooked egg is good.

DR. DAVID BEATON SENT OUT LETTER

Members of the Legislature From Rock County Receive Notice of Action of Ministers' Association.

At the recent meeting of the Rock County Ministerial association, a resolution was passed favoring an examination of all candidates for marriage to see whether they were free from all mental and physical defects. Dr. David Beaton, in a letter to a Chicago paper discussed the subject in the following manner, his communication being brought about by the recent murder of an Illinois woman by a degenerate youth. Dr. Beaton has mailed to each member of the legislature from Rock county the views of the ministerial association on the subject and in his article published today discussed it as follows:

Our interest in this subject, however, is not in a theory of psychology or medicine, but in its direct and practical bearing on the marriage of diseased and mentally defective persons and the health and morals of their offspring. The ministers of Rock county, Wis., representing all the denominations, at a meeting held here lately sent a petition to the legislature for an amendment to the marriage laws so as to require of the contracting parties freedom from infectious disease and mental defects. In passing this resolution it was felt that such a drastic measure must not be urged merely as an ideal of morals, nor even on the advanced doctrines of physicians and psychologists, but must be based upon the concrete facts of physical health and social experience. This physical basis lies in the correlation of body and mind and its effects, as illustrated in the case of the boy murderer, that the congenital defect of the body brings the practical degeneracy of the mind.

The constitutionality of such a marriage law rests upon the supreme law of the public welfare. 1. To prevent infection of the conjugal partner. 2. To prevent the transmission to offspring of physical defects, especially of the brain and nervous system. 3. To prevent the birth of intellectual defects and moral degenerates. 4. To save the state from the economic burdens and criminal evils resulting from such defective children. In a word, the marriage of the physically diseased and mentally defective poisons the life blood of the race at the fountain head.

JANESVILLE GROCERS WANT HALF HOLIDAY

Committee With Petition Visited Business Places This Afternoon Want Wednesday Afternoon.

Janesville grocers, their clerks, and other employees will have a regular weekly half-holiday during the months of May, June, July, August and September, if the petition placed in circulation this afternoon is generally signed. Those affixing their names to the petition agree to close their places of business every Wednesday, beginning at 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon during the months just mentioned, the first half-holiday to begin May 7, and the last to come on September 24. A committee consisting of William H. Taylor, Eugene Roessing, and E. R. Winslow had the petition drawn up and hoped to visit and secure signatures of all the grocers in the city before night. Wednesday afternoon is believed to be the most convenient time for a half-holiday as the week-end is an especially busy time.

MORE HELP WANTED TO CLEAN UP CITY

School Teachers, Visiting Nurse, And Few Children Only Ones Now Selling Tickets.

Hearty co-operation of the citizens with the City Health Officer is needed if Janesville's second organized cleanup campaign is to be made a success. Up to the present time the only ones who have consented to aid in the sale of the tickets the proceeds of which will pay for hauling away rubbish are the superintendents and teachers in the city schools and the visiting nurse, and more recruits will be needed to properly finance it. A large number of those who assisted in the cleanup campaign a year ago appear to have lost interest and are unwilling to contribute their services this year. The only way in which the cleanup can be made is by selling a ticket for each wagon-load of rubbish, as no teamsters can be engaged unless they are guaranteed sufficient work to keep them busy during the three days set aside for this purpose.

The Health Officer wishes to re-emphasize his advice that ashes be not mixed with garbage. Ashes, not mingled with decaying matter, can be hauled to the nearest place where filling material is needed, but if mixed they will have to be hauled a much greater distance away.

Citizens should also bear in mind that all material to be hauled away must be left at the curb (not in the gutter) on or before the first cleanup day. Otherwise it may be overlooked. It is understood that all who desire to clean-up their premises at once and haul away rubbish before that time are welcome to do so.

OBITUARY.

Daniel James Murphy.
Requiem mass for Daniel James Murphy will be celebrated at nine o'clock tomorrow morning in St. Patrick's church. Interment will be made in Mt. Olivet cemetery.

Miss Hazel Burdick.
Funeral services for Miss Hazel Burdick, the nineteen year old daughter of Mrs. Clara Burdick, were held from the home 343 South River street, this morning. Requiem mass was celebrated at nine o'clock in St. Patrick's church by the Rev. Father William Mahoney, who also preached a sermon befitting the occasion. Those who acted as pall-bearers were Joseph Gillespie, Charles Foley, Leroy Hammes, Francis Cronin, Lawrence Griffen, and Patrick Condon. Those from out of the city who attended the funeral were Miss Viola Gokey, of Oregon, Wis., Leroy Pottinger of Madison, Alfred Eley of Stoughton, and Warner Pautsch of Rockford. The remains were tenderly laid to rest in Mount Olivet cemetery.

CLAYTON HAMILTON SPEAKS AT DRAMA LEAGUE MEETING

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Chicago, Ill., April 24.—The third annual convention of the Drama League began at the Hotel LaSalle in this city today and will continue until the end of the week. The general subject selected for discussion is "Modern Theater Movements and Tendencies in Drama." Appearing on the program are papers or addresses by Cosmo Hamilton, the English dramatist; Mrs. Francis Squire, editor of the General Federation of Women's Clubs; Dr. Felix E. Schelling, of the University of Pennsylvania; Raymond MacDonald Alden, of the University of Illinois; and Clayton Hamilton, of Columbia University.

WILL TAKE PRACTICAL STEP TO ELIMINATE COMMISSION MEN

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Chicago, Ill., April 24.—The first practical step to demonstrate the possibility of economy in distribution of farm products is scheduled to be taken tomorrow, when a large shipment of fresh vegetables is to be started from Texas to Chicago. The plan has been worked out by an association of Texas farmers. By eliminating the commission men and selling direct from the farmer to the consumer it is believed that a great reduction in prices will be possible. Distributing stations are to be established in various localities of the city. Hampers containing an assortment of fresh vegetables enough to last a family of five one week, will be sold for $1.20. It is reckoned that a similar supply would cost from $3.50 to $4.50 under ordinary sale.

WELL KNOWN HORSEMAN DIES IN MILWAUKEE TODAY

(By Associated Press.)

Milwaukee, April 24.—Thomas J. Dunbar, aged 72, well known horseman, died today at his Milwaukee home, after a lingering illness. Mr. Dunbar for many years followed the grand circuit and other meetings and in his day drove many noted trotters and pacers.

LOST AT SEA.

"Help, oh, help! What a dreadful ship, oh, help!"

The poor girl gasped as she sank. Her face was wet, her whole form wet and her hair was dark and dank.

"Will no one help me?" cried the beautiful bather, as, with a cry of despair and a few bubbles she sank for the seventh time.

"Let me help you!" cried one tall young lifeguard, standing bravely at the ocean's edge and holding out his arms to her.

"No, let me!" cried another tall young lifeguard.

"They tossed for it, and the tallest and youngest won."

With strong steady strokes he breasted the burning breakers and after several back-breaking, bucketing hours, he reached the fair girl's side just as she was sinking for the fourteenth time.

"I'll save you!" he gasped weakly, grasping at her disappearing tresses.

"Let go, silly!" she said impatiently.

"I'm the Diving Venus by profession, and I've dropped a new side comb. Won't you help me find it?"

With a low, "yes," cry he helped her find it.

CLAIM PARCELS POST HAS HURT BUSINESS

Express Companies Enter Vigorous Protest to Fill Which Would Materially Cut Their Rates.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Madison, Wis., April 24.—The express companies operating in the state protested against the passage of the Hurbut bill yesterday to cut all express companies in the state twenty per cent. They claimed that 20 per cent of their business had been captured by the parcels post. The hearing was held before the committee on transportation of the assembly. Assemblage Hubert said that there was a general protest against the exorbitant charges of the express companies of the state.

Matter for Commission.

E. C. Nack, representing the American Express company, said that the question of express rates in the state was now being considered by the railroad commission. He claimed that the interstate commerce commission would render its decision early in May and that the commission would give its decision immediately after that was announced. He contended that the present express rates were not too high, that there was a falling off in the business of from five to six per cent each month as compared to a year ago. He attributed this to the parcels post. He said that a horizontal cut in express rates was not scientific and that the legislature should permit the railroad commission to settle the matter. In explaining the express business he said that there was no profit in handling express packages under forty cents. He also said that thirty-five per cent of this charge made was paid to the railroad company for carrying the packages.

Unwarranted Interference.

Former State Senator Henry Lochney of Waukesha attacked the bill. He said that it was an unwarranted interference with the work of the railroad commission. E. W. Nallier, general manager of the American Express company of Chicago, said that the parcels post had curtailed the express revenues in the state and that the expenses were practically the same.

Assemblyman Hurbut read a statement showing that the express companies owned stock in the railroads and vice versa. He declared that the 55 per cent paid the railroads for carrying the express was a direct dividend to themselves. He said that the people of the state demanded a law that would assure them that they were "soon to be released" from the giant express monopoly. No recommendation was made by the committee on the bill.

"KISSING DAY" TRADITION OBSERVED AT HUNGERFORD

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

London, April 24.—One of the few ancient customs that has survived the changes of time, and the fame of which has spread throughout the world, is "Kissing Day" which was observed as usual today at Hungerford; the Lancastrian borough on the western borders of Berkshire. Dusty blasts on the ancient barn were blown early this morning by the town orier, attired in a new livery for the occasion. The "Littluns" went forth with floral-decorated staves, their duty being to kiss all the ladies whom they met, and demand a penny from every male householder they called upon. Meanwhile the Hocktide jury were meeting in the town hall for the transaction of more serious business, appointing a constable, who is coroner and mayor combined, ale tasters, leather sealers, keepers of the keys of the common coffer, and other ancient officials whose duties are more picturesque than practical.

The Home Sentinel.

It is each woman's duty to understand the preparation of food so that it may be fit for human consumption. It may not be necessary for her to attend to the actual work, but she should be the sentinel, always on guard.

Considerate Wife.

"I shall use the money you gave me to spend on my birthday, John," said the wife, tenderly. "In the purchase of something that will constantly remind me of your generosity. I shall have the portraits of my first three husbands beautifully framed and hung in our sitting-room."

Inference Obvious.

Reggie (over on a visit)—"Do you know, old chap, I think that vulgar fellow over there incited me?" American Friend—"You think so? What did he say?" Reggie—"Why, he suggested in a very rude manner that when I die, I bequeath my head to a collar-button factory."

The Theatre

ELANCHE MORRISON, prima donna of the Aboyn Opera Co., in its gigantic revival of "THE BOHEMIAN GIRL" at Myers Theatre on Friday night, April 25.

FAMOUS SINGERS IN "THE BOHEMIAN GIRL."

The cast of characters in The Bohemian Girl is as follows: Thadens, a Polish exile (Tenor); Count Arnheim, Governor of Pressburg (Baritone); Florestein, nephew of the Count (Tenor); Devilshoof, chief of the gypsies (Basso); Captain of the Guard (Basso); an Officer (Tenor); Arline (Soprano); Euda, her nurse (Soprano); Queen of the Gypsies (Soprano); gypsies, huntsmen, guests, etc.

Balfie, who was himself a distinguished baritone in his day, attributed much of his unusual success as a writer of operas to his acquaintance with the requirements of the singer. Mrs. Malibrah, the greatest singer of her time, met with great success in some of the Balfie operas. One of the most renowned of Arlines was Mme. Parepa-Rosa, who was always a favorite in the role. In fact, very few of the great prima donnas of that period failed to make The Bohemian Girl a part of their repertoires. The most celebrated musical numbers from this very popular opera have been A Soldier's Life, I Dreamt That I Dwelt in Marble Halls (Soprano, from the Hills and Valleys (quartet), The Heart Bowed Down (Baritone), When Other Lips and Other Hearts (Tenor). The quality of Balfie's melodies has been criticised by many who might find it absolutely impossible to write a tune to compare with any of them. Had Balfie possessed the technique of some of his contemporaries he might easily have been one of the greatest masters of all time. His lovely melodies seem well nigh immortal.

"The Bohemian Girl" will be at the Myers Friday night.

Forecasting The Weather

Circulation of the Atmosphere.

Cold air is heavier than warm air under corresponding conditions, because heat expands the atmospheric gases and makes them less dense. We can see this principle illustrated in the hot-air balloon which rises because the superheated air in the sack is lighter, volume for volume, than the colder surrounding air, and it is forced upward in the same manner that a cork when released under water that is forced to the surface. In general we may assume that the greater the difference in the temperature of adjacent volumes of air, the more energetic will be the movement on action to restore equilibrium, which accounts for the violent disturbances in the atmosphere.

Bearing in mind that the superheated air rises, and at the same time considering the temperature conditions that obtain on various portions of the earth's surface, we may reason out some of the movements that actual observations have proven to exist. In the equatorial belt the superheated air is constantly rising and flowing out on either side toward the poles. The cooler surface air that flows steadily in from either side and displaces the warm rising air constitutes the trade winds, which blow northeast in the Northern Hemisphere and from the southeast in the Southern Hemisphere.

The air that rises in the equatorial belt and flows out on either side can not move directly toward the poles on account of the convergence of the meridians. In other words, air cannot move from all sides toward a common center, and in much the same manner that water flows around the outer portion of a whirlpool and approaches the center gradually, so the air passes around the earth at intermediate altitudes and forms a cyclonic circulation in each hemisphere that is most marked in the temperature zones. The direction of the circulation is determined by a force arising from the rotation of the earth upon its axis, which deflects freely moving particles to the right in the Northern Hemisphere, and to the left in the Southern Hemisphere.

Underneath the eastward flow of air in the temperate regions, the unequal heating and the surface configuration break the circulation up into cyclonic eddies which are shown as highs and lows on the weather maps. The extent to which the surface configuration enters into the formation of highs and lows is problematical, but it is known that the trend of mountain ranges from those of North America, is relatively free from such disturbances. The highs and lows are very shallow formations, being only about two miles in depth and sometimes more than 2,000 miles in diameter, and they are moved from west to east by the friction of the upper easterly air currents. Local disturbances, such as thunderstorms, tornadoes, waterspouts, and squalls, occur within the lows, while thunderstorms are not uncommon within the outer border of the highs.

The weather maps reveal the fact that the wind never blows in a straight line, although locally it appears to do so. All the atmospheric movements are in whirls or eddies, large or small, the precise character of the whirl depending partly upon its size and partly upon surrounding conditions. All of the lesser disturbances, up to and including the high and low pressure areas shown on the weather maps, have a movement of translation in addition to the whirl or vortex circulation.

The most energetic air movements are tornadoes, which are local disturbances seldom more than 150 or 200 yards in diameter and which become so violent that the largest and strongest buildings are torn into pieces and strewn over their paths. In a tornado the depth is many times the diameter, so that the disturbance has a funnel-like formation. In the large disturbances, such as hurricanes and the large lows, the area covered is relatively so great that they become very thin disks. The precise type of circulation must vary in these different formations, although it is cyclonic in each instance. A high may be likened to an inverted low, inasmuch as the circulation is the reverse of that in the low. The small dust whirls that we sometimes see in the street or over plowed fields illustrate the cyclonic principle of atmospheric circulation.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

ON GETTING HURT.

A YOUNG woman was making arrangements to entertain a small group of her college mates at a house party. "I'd like to invite Margaret," she said regretfully as she went over the list with her mother, "but there really isn't any man I could invite for her, and it would be awkward to have her without, under the circumstances."

"Won't she be hurt, if you leave her out?" asked the mother. "Thank goodness, no," said the daughter, emphatically. "Most of the girls would, but Margaret is one of those people who don't get hurt. I guess she is too busy."

Doesn't that description make you think you would like to know Margaret, whoever she is?

That was the effect it had upon me.

I had never met the girl to whom my friends referred nor even heard her name mentioned, but when I heard that characterization I felt my heart warm toward her.

"One of those people who don't get hurt"—how many people do you know of whom you could confidently say that? Not many, I reckon.

Permitting one's self to get hurt over trifles or real grievances is too much of a luxury to the average person to be willingly dispensed with.

What some people would find to occupy their minds if they did not have grievances to nurse and slight to brood over I cannot imagine. I suppose they would be as unhappy as an unmarried woman I used to know. She had no children, no intellectual interests and, as she boarded at a hotel, no household cares. She was crying down married life to me one day. "My dear," she said, "you can't imagine how bored I am with the whole thing. Why, Phil and I haven't even had a good quarrel for three months."

I suppose the people who take such pleasure in getting hurt are in much the same state of ennui when they cannot find a grievance.

The sensitiveness which makes its possessors continually fancy themselves slighted or hurt has too long been regarded as a kind of virtue, or at least the hall-mark of an artistic temperament. To me it is nothing, but another name for self-centeredness and the hall-mark of an unoccupied mind. It is only people who have nothing to think about, but themselves who are super-sensitive. The busy, unselfish people do not have time to wonder if they are being slighted.

Sensitiveness is a fine enough quality so long as you are sensitive to the right thing. Be as sensitive to beauty as you can. There is happiness in that for you. Fortunate indeed is the man who can say "My heart leaps up when I behold a rainbow in the sky." Be as sensitive to the suffering of others as you can; but as for the petty, self-pitying, self-centered sensitiveness that is forever "getting hurt," don't consider that a virtue, for it isn't. The virtue lies on the side of those people who, like Margaret, are too busy to feel it.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl of seventeen, and very much in love with a young man of twenty-two. He seemed to like me very much before I went away to college, but while I was gone he found another girl, and since I returned home he has paid no attention to me. I am very good looking. What can I do to get him back? (2) Is "Mutt" slang? (3) You are still young enough not to worry because one young man has found another love. Forget him, my dear. With him it is "out of sight, out of mind," and if you married him you would always have trouble because of that. You will probably be able to get him back when he sees that you are popular with other young men. (2) Yes.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Which make the feet look smaller, sandals or high top shoes? (2) Is there any remedy for big feet? My feet are so large that they spoil my appearance. (3) If there are any hair in or on responding with a boy whom you have never seen, but became acquainted by means of his friends and relations? (4) What will whiten a yellow neck? (5) What is the best kind of cold cream to use on the face?

LOLLIE.

(1) Black, dull leather shoes will look best. (2) Feet are supposed to be of a size in proportion to the rest of the body. The very small, squeezed foot is no longer fashionable. (3) Possibly not, if the correspondence is dignified and your parents approve. (4) Lemon juice. But termilk, oatmeal water. (5) One of the cheapest and best things I know of is pure white lard. The best creams are usually the most expensive ones.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am fourteen years of age and I am engaged to marry a girl one year younger. I am still going to school. I have her ring. I wear. I am in the eighth grade. (2) I would like to know what would be a good occupation for me. (3) My father won't let me have a horse. How should I ask him in order to get one?

UNHAPPY DOCK.

(1) My dear daddy, don't you know that it is only a very silly girl who will get engaged to a boy of your age? Why, if you can't judge any better than that now, you will never grow into a sensible man. Tell the girl that you have thought things over and that you have decided you are both too young to think of marrying, and that you intend to get a good education and learn a trade before you ask another girl to marry you. (2) Consult your father about that. (3) Perhaps he has some very good reason for not letting you have the horse. Ask him the reason, and if you know it is sensible, make up your mind to be satisfied until you can buy a horse for yourself.

ported the majority of the ready-to-eat brands as thoroughly cooked. Predigested foods are not necessary to the average healthy persons, since they are better off for doing their own normal work of digestion; others should consult a competent physician in this selection of breakfast foods.

All things considered, they come to us clean, nutritious, convenient and economical and deserve a place on our breakfast table as unpolished, unadorned grains when properly combined with other foods.

Oatmeal. Materials—Steel oatmeal, 1 cup; boiling water, 1 quart; salt, 1 teaspoonful.

Directions—Put the water into the smallest fireless cooker vessel, place over the fire and bring to the boiling point. Add the salt and very slowly and gradually the oatmeal, keeping it active boiling over. When the oatmeal is all in stir gently from the bottom, cover and boil five minutes, being careful not to remove the cover, which has been fastened on tight. Remove the cooker, close and leave overnight. In the morning the oatmeal should be hot and deliciously cooked. If half this recipe is required a small agate or granite pail with tight-fitting cover can be placed inside of the kettle. Put the water into this and the oatmeal as above directed, started directly over the fire. Now set on a small rack in the larger kettle and surround with boiling water; cover and boil fifteen minutes and then transfer all quickly to the fireless cooker. Where there is no fireless cooker use the same material and cook for three or four hours in a double boiler.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To Take Color Out of Goods. It is not generally known that there is such a thing as a "color discharge." Perhaps you have some drapery or dresses you would like to change the color. This can be done in a safe and easy way. You can change a dark green, blue or red shade to light pink, yellow or white.

Here is my way of doing it: Fill the washboiler half full of water, add 14 cups washing fluid. This compound is made of (mix in jar or basin) one cup lye, 5 cents' worth each of salts of tartar and salts of ammonia, four quarts of water. (Most housewives have this and use it for washing.)

Put the dark clothes in boiler, boil half an hour or longer, stirring all the time, keeping goods well under water to insure an even discharge. If the water gets very dirty, take out some and add clear water.

You will find the dark colors getting very light now. If you want it white you can get a color discharge compound at the drug counter in the department store and use according to directions. If you have done as above you will need only half the amount of the "discharge" as per directions. It does not hurt the goods. After it is white you can color it any light shade you want. I have the best success with it this way and the goods are like new.

Whooping Cough. For children with the whooping cough get chestnut leaves at the drug store, steep and sweeten and give every little while.

If they tire of it as a drink, steep leaves until strength is drawn out, then again, add sugar and cook a few minutes until like sirup; give a spoonful often. It loosens the cough.

One can buy chestnut leaves by the ounce at the drug store.

Things Worth Knowing. To Remove Coffee Stains—Mix the yolk of an egg with a little water, slightly warm, and use it like soap. If stains have been in for some time, a little alcohol should be added to the egg and water.

For a Bad Tasting Mouth—Turkey rhubarb, powdered, is very good; one-eighth of a teaspoon dissolved in water; take first thing on rising.

Wear automobile goggles to peel onions; grate horseradish, handle peppers, or cook over a hot fire. To use up small pieces of all kinds of soap, scouring or shaving stick, make six-inch bag, put in small scraps of soap too small to be used otherwise. When bag is full, boil in two quarts of water till transparent. Use instead of soap powder.

CHATS WITH THINKING WOMEN

Efficiency in Economizing

AFTER we have mastered efficient methods in our work, wouldn't it be a good thing to introduce efficient methods into our economizing? At present, our economy is after all really rather wasteful. Somebody who has been studying the milk question in one of the big cities, purely from the point of view of purity—there was no thought of economy in his investigations—found hundreds of milk bottles in garbage cans, and of open lots, and in other places to which waste products drift.

He was merely on the trail of the dirty milk bottle. But does not the result of his quest open up another question?

Who pays for all those discarded and lost milk bottles? You and I and every other user of milk. The milkman probably charges up so much to loss, and adds to the cost of milk for every customer, that customer's percentage of this loss.

And this is only one of the thousand of ways in which we pay for wastefulness and carelessness; not necessarily our own; in fact rarely our own. We pay for the thoughtlessness and wastefulness of others.

At a recent sale of wash dresses in one of the large stores, numbers of customers had three, four, five, and often as high as a half dozen dresses sent home on approval. In many cases, none of these women had the slightest intention of buying a single dress. But they wanted to try them on, and look them over, and enjoy the contemplation of buying them. After a day or so, the dresses were returned. This is a common experience in nearly all classes of merchandise, as every merchant will tell you. Who pays for delivering these dresses, for sending them back, for pressing them out, for the possible loss entailed by their being left on hand when the sale is over?

Every other customer of the store. These avenues of waste are about us on all sides. There is scarcely a thing we use in which we do not pay perhaps for our own wastefulness, at any rate, for that of other persons.

We are cutting out useless movements in work, for the purpose of cutting down cost of production.

Let us now eliminate useless waste; or at any rate, compel those who do the wasting to do the paying.

Burns and scalds should be treated with glycerine and flour; the latter well heaped over the affected part. Then tie round a linen bandage to exclude the air. If cotton wool is handy it is better to use for this purpose than linen.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

DO YOU ever stop to consider? When everything seems to grow wrong, that the fault that we think is another's has been our own all the day long?

WAYS OF USING CORN.

Green corn is usually preferable in most of these dishes, although the canned will give good results.

As a vegetable, corn is so often served with butter and milk, and this monotony grows tiresome. (A salad, a soufflé, fritters and any number of combinations are good.)

Corn Soufflé.—Melt a tablespoonful of butter and add to it a tablespoonful of sifted flour; stir until smooth, then add one by one three beaten egg yolks and a cup of hot milk. Cook until smooth, add a cup of corn, fresh or canned, season with salt and pepper, then fold in the well beaten whites. Put into a buttered mold or into individual molds and bake in a hot oven twenty minutes. Serve in the dish in which it is baked.

Baked Tomatoes and Corn.—Select small-sized tomatoes of uniform size, scoop out the pulp from the stem end without peeling; turn upside down and drain. Mix a cup of corn with two eggs, a tablespoonful of butter and one of flour, creamed together; season well with salt and pepper, fill with the mixture and bake in a moderate oven twenty minutes. Serve with a garnish of parsley.

Corn Salad.—This is best with freshly boiled corn cut from the cob. Use equal quantities of corn and freshly boiled rice; season and add sufficient mayonnaise. Serve in lettuce cups, very cold.

If one can get fresh clams, corn and clams make a most delightful combination. Chop half a green pepper and a slice of onion together; cook in a quarter of a cupful of butter until soft, add a quarter of a cupful of flour and stir until foamy. Heat a pint of clams in their own juice; drain and chop. Measure the clams and take equal parts of fresh grated corn. Add three-quarters of a cup of the clam juice, after straining, to the butter and flour; add two beaten eggs and three tablespoonfuls of cream and stir into the clam juice, but do not boil. Butter some clam shells; put in the mixture and cover with buttered crumbs. Serve on a napkin on a hot platter. Garnish with parsley.

Mrs. Hemmick is a social leader and dictator of style, but the working girls have not made a wild scramble for men's clothing stores since she offered her suggestion.

The Best Tonic For Spring Use

(The Home Doctor.)

"To best cleanse the system and rid the blood of those impurities which cause drowsiness, spring fever, sluggish action of the liver and general spring sickness, there is nothing quite so good as a homemade tonic, prepared as follows: Get from any drug store 1 1/2 pint alcohol and one ounce ketchup; mix these with 1/2 cup full sugar then add hot water to make a quart. No matter how lacking in strength and energy or how run-down one may be, a tablespoonful of this splendid tonic taken before meals will soon purify the blood, drive out impurities and the feeling of perfect health, and remove all pimples or sallowness. This simple, inexpensive system tonic is a perfect liver regulator and will do wonders as a family medicine in preventing sickness."

Domestic Science DEPARTMENT

CONDUCTED BY Mrs. Alice Mitchell Kirk

There are many reasons for believing that there is a growing tendency in this country to use less meat at all meals excepting, perhaps, dinner, and in very many homes even at dinner meat is only used three times a week and a substitute in the vegetable kingdom, which supplies the same elements, is used.

This, of course, increases the importance of cereal foods as a necessary part of the diet. We do, however, recognize the most important of cereals as undoubtedly that used for bread.

When we stop to think of bread eaten 365 days in the year, three times a day, a simple multiplication will show 1,095 meals in which bread is served. Then we recognize its thoroughly established place as the most palatable, nutritious (when the whole grain is used) and convenient preparation for general use.

There is such a bewildering variety of breakfast foods on the market and such differences in taste, appearance and claims to nutritive value, that unless the housekeeper has some intelligent idea of the food value of these grains and all that may be lost in scouring and removing the elements which nourish and build the human body, she will not know what is best to buy for her family. The six most important grains—wheat, oats, corn, rice, rye and barley, appear to furnish the best nutriment. Any of these used with the entire grain as, for instance, in wheat the two outer layers, contains more of desirable mineral matters such as phosphorus, lime and iron, which are so necessary, especially in children, for the growth of bone and teeth.

In Graham flour and perhaps a few of the whole wheat breakfast foods all the bran is left in. Graham mush is particularly good for old people and children. Milk and good brown sugar may be eaten with it. The same with cornmeal. Good old-fashioned mush and milk should not grow into disuse; cooking it well in the double boiler. Whole Wheat Bread is Most Nutritious.

Whole wheat bread and milk has fine building qualities, and no mother need worry if her child has only that for breakfast.

Any and all of these cereals are most important. Thoroughness in cooking regulates very largely the digestibility. Poorly cooked cereals are not only less palatable, but may cause indigestion and be really harmful.

Here is where the fireless cooker should be used, and it is hardly necessary now, since it is so well known, to say that a small one for cooking cereals should be in every house. Recent government tests have re-

MAHON MARKETING COMMISSION BILL ADVOCATES HEARD

Maintain That it Offers Only Means to Eliminate Waste and Harmful Competition.

Madison, Wis., April 24.—That only through an efficient commission laws to eliminate waste and harmful competition in marketing be enforced was a contention urged upon the assembly committee on public welfare yesterday by friends of the Mahon marketing commission bill. The hearing was devoted to the affirmative, speakers including former Senator A. W. Sanborn of Ashland; B. W. Ottman, producer and shipper of cotton; George J. Comings of Oak Claire; William E. Hamilton of Milwaukee, of the Wisconsin Association of Real Estate Dealers; Fred Janssen, in charge of Milwaukee market centers; Mr. Richard of the Milwaukee wholesale grocers' association, and Judge D. O. Mahoney of Viroqua, representing the Society of Equity. The hearing had the interest of a large assemblage throughout the afternoon. Senator Sanborn said that history was repeating itself in the cry that the enactment of this bill would paralyze business. On the contrary, he answered, every legitimate business would be protected to the ultimate increased prosperity of producer and consumer, and millions would be saved yearly in elimination of waste and middlemen's dividends. Senator Sanborn noted how, a year ago, large business interests displayed fear over the possibilities of the proposed railroad commission law and had predicted the state would "go to the devil" and that every business man would be wiped off the earth. That such results had not followed needed no elaboration now, he added. "You will find successful business men in our state until the world end," said Sanborn. "Nobody is going to be put out of business under this law provided it is conducted legitimately and honestly. This legislature is watchful against committing an injury to any legitimate business. It is only the flagrant cases which would demand action by the commission, and where there is reasonable doubt as to the sufficiency of a complaint the commission can be depended upon to exercise its power in favor of the individual."

Senator Sanborn declared that the anti-cigarette law is not enforced because no responsible body like a commission exists to enforce it, and that an anti-discrimination law without a commission back of it would amount to nothing. The question involved in this marketing bill is the highest ever put up to Wisconsin, in Senator Sanborn's opinion. In 75 percent of Wisconsin's municipalities are twice as many groceries as are needed, he said, with the result that they make less profit than they are entitled to and that the cost of living is increased for the consumer. Senator Sanborn declared the commission will not prevent competition but will protect monopoly. Mr. Ottman referred to the great waste in shipments of perishable goods to markets and the excess cost from handling through middlemen. There are mutual associations of producers but none of consumers, and this bill, he said, sought to introduce the element of co-operation among both classes to the benefit of both. Then commodities would come to the consumers fresh and at reasonable prices. The farmers had been blamed for the high cost of living. He was convinced, however, that neither that class nor the railroad get more than they are entitled to. Taking the viewpoint of the shipper, he believed the plan outlined in the bill would save millions annually to Wisconsin citizens. If Wisconsin adopts the plan, he predicted, other states would follow her lead. The argument of William F. Pierstorff last week that the small dealer would be eliminated was given no weight by the Hudson man.

Mr. Comings said that if the bill proposed in any sense to relieve the economic and social condition of the farming classes, he urged its enactment. He made a plea for the co-operative spirit among the farmers, who are lacking therein; this bill proposed to educate them and the rest of the people to the end that farm products shall reach the consumer without the payment of an excessive price. William E. Hamilton believed the bill was a broad, comprehensive one of large scope, whose language was such that all can understand it and in which no legal complications are imbedded. It would educate and instruct the people. He said he had heard arguments of the opposition, and declared that if their business is conducted on lines honest and fair they will have no reason for fear. He said it does not propose to take business away from any honest trader.

Fred Janssen recited the success of the Milwaukee municipal market as soon as they had been transformed from wholesale to retail places. He said that more such centers are about to be established. Secretary Rickard of the wholesale grocers desired amendments made to some clauses of the bill but was in sympathy with the bill as a whole. The argument was closed by Judge Mahoney who spoke as a representative of the Wisconsin union, American Society of Equity.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

THE HIGH SCHOOL.

By Howard L. Rann.

THE high school is a large brick building where young men and women are taught everything except spelling and the location of the Panama canal. It is a costly edifice, and is usually built with the extra double windows which causes the perspiration to stand out on the brow of the body.

High schools are a great blessing, but they would be more popular if they spent less time on botany and biology and more on single entry bookkeeping.

mathematics, which is drilled into the sweet girl graduate as thoroughly as possible. This is an excellent thing for when the girl graduates gets married she will have fully as much use for geometry and trigonometry as a blind man for a reading glass. There are thousands of high school graduates who can parse a right angle triangle with their eyes shut, but who don't know whether Aafon Burr was the second husband of Pocahontas or a trademark for a new brand of sleeveless underwear.

The high school is presided over by fifteen or twenty teachers who take the plastic mind of youth and fill it full of decimal fractions, German vowels, Shakespearean sonnets and other gray matter, which come in very handy when the graduate begins to learn the grocery business.

The high school also teaches a style of angular penmanship which the addressee has to stand on his head to read.

High schools are a great blessing, but they would be more popular if they spent less time on botany and biology and more on single entry bookkeeping.

WOMAN'S ILLS DISAPPEARED

Like Magic after taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

North Bangor, N. Y.—"As I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with great benefit I feel it my duty to write and tell you about it. I was ailing from female weakness and had headache and backache nearly all the time. I was later every month than I should have been and so sick that I had to go to bed.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has made me well and these troubles have disappeared like magic. I have recommended the Compound to many women who have used it successfully."—Mrs. JAMES J. STACY, R.F.D. No. 3, North Bangor, N. Y.

Another Made Well.
Ann Arbor, Mich.—"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done wonders for me. For years I suffered terribly with hemorrhages and had pains so intense that sometimes I would faint away. I had female weakness so bad that I had to doctor all the time and never found relief until I took your remedies to please my husband. I recommend your wonderful medicine to all sufferers as I think it is a blessing for all women."—Mrs. L. E. WYCKOFF, 112 S. Ashley St., Ann Arbor, Mich.

There need be no doubt about the ability of this grand old remedy, made from the roots and herbs of our fields, to remedy woman's diseases. We possess volumes of proof of this fact, enough to convince the most skeptical. Why don't you try it?

THE PURCHASE PRICE; OR, THE CAUSE OF COMPROMISE

By EMERSON HOUGH

"You've not been much among women," she said. "You don't understand them."

"I don't reckon anybody does."

"Jeanne told me that she heard last night a child crying here in this house."

"Could it not have been a negro child?" He smiled at her, even as he stood under inquisition.

She noticed that his face now seemed pale. The bones of the cheeks stood out more now. He showed more gravity. Freed of his red fighting flush, the flame of passion gone out of his eyes, he seemed more dignified, more of a man than had hitherto been apparent to her.

"No, no," cried out Jeanne. "Eet was no negaire child; not at all, never! I know those negaire voice. It was a voice white, madame, monsieur. Apparently it wept. Perhaps it had hunger."

A sort of grim uncovering of his teeth was Dunwoody's smile. He made no comment. His face was whiter than before.

"Whose child was it?" demanded Josephine. "Hers?"

"No."

"Yours?"

"No."

"Oh, well, I suppose it was some servant's, though the overseer, Jeanne says, lives across the fields there. And there would not be any negroes living here in the house in any case?"

"No."

"Was it—was it—yours?"

"I have no child. There will never be any for me in the world—except—under—"

But now the flush came back into his face. Confused, he turned and gently laid down the faded silks across a chair back. He shook his head and walked out of the room.

Dunwoody joined Jamieson below, and the latter now called for his horse, the two walking together toward the door. They hardly had reached the gallery when there became audible the sound of hoof beats rapidly approaching up the road across the lawn. A party of four horsemen appeared, all riding hard.

"They look familiar," said Dunwoody. "That's Jones, and that's Judge Clayton, down below—why, I just left both of them on the boat the other day! It's Desha and Yates with them, from the other side of the county. There must be something up."

All four got down, shook hands with Dunwoody, gave their reins to servants and joined him on his invitation to enter. Jamieson was known to all of them.

"Well, Colonel Dunwoody," began the Hon. William Jones, "you didn't expect to see us so soon, did you? Reckon you'd ought to be all the gladder."

"You live here, my dear colonel," he continued, looking about him. "In much the same state and seclusion remarked by Mr. Gibbon in his immortal work on the decline and fall of Rome—where he described the castles of the mountainous regions. But it ain't no Roman road you've got out thar."

"I was going to remark," interrupted Judge Clayton, "that Colonel Dunwoody has anticipated all the modern requirements of hospitality as well as embodied all those of ancient sort. Thank you, I shall taste your bourbon, colonel, with gladness. It is a long ride in from the river."

Their host looked at them for a moment. "Are you here on any special errand? But of course there must be something of the sort to bring you two gentlemen so close on my trail."

"We met up with these gentlemen down at the river," began Yates, "and from what they done told us, we thought we'd all better ride in along together, and have a little talk with you. Looks like there might be trouble in these parts before long."

Hon. William Jones. "The 'Jedge' an' I laid off at Cairo when you all went on through. Next day, along comes a steamer from up river, an' she's full of a fightin' army than so many settlers. They're gold out into the prairie country beyant an' I think it's just on the early bird principle to hold it aginst settlers from this state. They're a lot of those black abolitionists, that's what they are! What's more, that Lily gal of the 'Jedge's here, she's got away agin—she turned up missin' at Cairo, too—an' she is taken up with this bunch of Yankees an' is mighty apt to give 'em off."

Judge Clayton nodded gravely. "The whole north is stirred up and bound to make trouble. These men seemed to have taken the girl in without hesitation. They don't intend to stand by any compromise, at least. The question is, what are we going to do about it? We can't stand here and see our property taken away by armed invaders in this way."

Dunwoody remained silent for a time. Dr. Jamieson took snuff and looked quietly from one to the other. "You can count me in, gentlemen," said he.

Silence fell as he went on. "If they mean fight, let them have fight. If we let in one army of abolitionists out here to run off our property, another will follow."

"The south has been swindled all along the line," he exclaimed, rising and smiling a fist into a palm. "We got Texas, yes, but it had to be by war. We've been jugged out of California, which ought to have been a southern state. We are cut off from growth to the south by Mexico. On the west we have these Indians, relocated. The whole upper west is a tight abolitionist by national law. Now, where shall we go? These abolitionists are even wedging in west of us."

Strange enough such speech sounds today. But as the gray headed old doctor went on he only voiced what was the earnest conviction of many of the ablest men of his time, both of the south and the north.

"The south has been robbed. We paid our share of the cost of this last war in blood and in money! We paid for our share in the new territory won for the union! And now they deny us any share of it! Gentlemen, it's invasion, that's what it is, and that's my answer, so far as my honest conscience and all my wisdom go. It's war! What's the next thing to do? Judge, we can take back your girl—the legal right to do that is clear. But we all know that that may be only a beginning."

The Hon. William Jones helped himself to whisky, altogether forgetting his principle of taking but one drink a day. "If them abolitionists would only stay at home we could afford to sit quiet an' let 'em howl; but when they come into our dooryard an' begin to howl it's time something ought to be did. I 'low we'll have to fight."

"We will fight," said Dunwoody slowly and gravely.

"What about these men using?" asked Dr. Jamieson, turning to young Desha.

"Little old scow named the Helen Bell. She can't steam upstream a hundred miles a week. She ties up every night. We can easily catch her up above St. Genevieve if we ride fast."

"That looks feasible to me," remarked Judge Clayton, and the others nodded their approval.

Judge Clayton dropped into a seat, as he replaced his glass on the nearest table. "By the way, Colonel Dunwoody," said he, "there was something right strange happened on the Vernon, coming down the Ohio, and I thought maybe you could help us figure it out. There was another disappearance—that extraordinarily beautiful young lady who was there—you remember her? No one knew what became of her. When I heard about that Lily girl's escape, I sent my men with the two bucks on down home, with instructions for a little training, so they would not try the underground again right soon. But now—"

"Now about that Lily girl," interrupted the Hon. William Jones, who had once more forgotten his temperance resolutions—"But, hello, colonel, what's this—wha-a-t's this?"

He picked up and exposed to view a small object which he saw lying on the hall floor. It was a small pin of shell and silver, such as ladies sometimes used for fastening the hair.

"Somehow, I got the idea you was a bachelor man," went on the Hon. William cheerfully. "But looky here, now, what's this?"

Dunwoody suddenly confessed that what he really felt. His guest continued his investigation.

"An' looky there on the table!" pointing where some servant apparently had placed yet another article of ladies' apparel, dropped by accident—a dainty glove of make such as no servant of that country ever saw, much less used.

"Come now," blithely went on the gentleman from Belmont. "Things is lookin' mighty suspicious, mighty suspicious. Why didn't you tell us when you all was married?"

A sudden start might have drawn attention to Judge Clayton, but he controlled himself. And if a slight smile assailed his lips at least he was able to suppress it. "Nothing," however, could suppress the curiosity of the able student of Roman history. "I'll just take a little prow around," said he.

He was rewarded in his search. A little hairpin lay at the first step of the stair. He fell upon it with uproarious glee.

"That's gittin' hot," said he. "I reckon I'll go on up."

"No!" cried Dunwoody suddenly and sprang to the foot of the stair. "Please—that is—"

He hesitated. "If you will kindly wait a moment I will have the servants put your room in order for you before you go up."

"Oho," cried the Hon. William; "don't want us to find out a single thing! House of mystery, ah, ah! Doctor here too! Tell us, anybody died here to-day?"

Dr. Jamieson answered by quietly stepping to the side of Dunwoody. Judge Clayton without comment joined them, and the three edged in between the exhilarated gentleman and the stairway which he sought to ascend.

"I was just saying, gentlemen," remarked Judge Clayton quietly, "that I was sure it would give us all much pleasure to take a stroll around these beautiful grounds with Colonel Dunwoody."

He looked Dunwoody calmly in the eye, and the latter knew he had a friend. He knew perfectly well that Judge Clayton did not for an instant suppose that these articles ever had belonged to any servant.

IF THIS IS YOUR BIRTHDAY

Avoid pleasures in crowds and attend to things of more use to you. Your year holds more than ordinary chances of success with corresponding risks and trouble. Strict attention and foresight will show you the way.

Those born today will have frivolous tendencies, but wonderful talent for constructive mathematics, sciences and exact calculations. If these are nurtured in youth they will furnish some serious purpose to save the career from going to pieces in the shallows of society.

Still Mexico is torn asunder. I wonder what it means? The people there are raising thunder instead of raising beans. Month after month the cannons rattle and burrs are pelled down by jays who should be herding cattle or hauling hay to town. Their leaders talk a lot of glory, while stirring up the storms, and prancing up and down in gory bedraggled uniforms. But Mexican harvests for the undertakers and dead men in a field. Instant Relief for Sore Feet

Sore Feet, Tender Feet and Swollen Feet Cured Every Time by TIZ.

Send at Once for Free Trial Package.

Police men all over the world use TIZ. Police men stand on their feet all day and feet really mean. They use TIZ because TIZ cures their feet right up. It keeps policemen's feet in such perfect condition that they are able to walk on anything. TIZ is not a powder. It is a superior to powders or plasters. I can keep my feet in perfect condition. Be sure in my earnest gratitude for TIZ I am a policeman and keep on my feet all day. —Eazy Hurrell, Austin, Texas.

You never tried anything like TIZ before for your feet. It is different from anything ever before sold.

TIZ is not a powder. Powders and other foot remedies clog up the pores. TIZ draws out all poisonous exudations which bring on soreness of the feet, and is the only remedy that does. TIZ cleans out every pore and glorifies the feet—your feet. You'll never limp again or draw up your face in pain and you'll forget about your corns, bunions and calluses. You'll feel like a new person.

If you allow your head to be swayed in favor of taking a substitute for TIZ, you'll have to answer to your feet. For there is nothing else will ensure your feet being well. TIZ is for sale at all drug stores, department and general stores at 25 cents a box. Money back if TIZ doesn't do all we say. For free trial package write today to Walter Luntz Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Hot Corn Bags.

An excellent substitute for the expensive hot water bottle of rubber is made by heating common field corn, shelled, in a pan in the oven. When thoroughly warmed, pour it into cloth bags, such as salt and sugar are packed in. These filled bags are light and pliable, and satisfactorily answer every purpose of the hot water bottle. —McCall's Magazine.

Irresistible Attraction.

Briggs—"I understand that Bulger fell in love with the girl he married at first sight." Griggs—"Yes; when he first saw her she was making a fat deposit in the savings bank."

Still Mexico is torn asunder. I wonder what it means? The people there are raising thunder instead of raising beans. Month after month the cannons rattle and burrs are pelled down by jays who should be herding cattle or hauling hay to town. Their leaders talk a lot of glory, while stirring up the storms, and prancing up and down in gory bedraggled uniforms. But Mexican harvests for the undertakers and dead men in a field. Furnished Rooms May Be Rented Profitably

Just to have "furnished room to rent" is no great feat or novelty. It is said that one in every three families in the city rent furnished rooms. The number of people whose homes are in furnished rooms, "homes within homes," is very large.

And among the people who live in "one-room homes" are an increasing number who like to have things a little better than usual. They like to have a pleasant room, and they like to have it fitted up DISTINCTIVELY, with taste.

They will cheerfully, eagerly, pay for SOMETHING BETTER in the way of a furnished room. Fix yours up to please the particular tenants, and ADVERTISE ACCORDINGLY, and you'll get back your investment with profit in a very brief time!
